THE HYAKEM FOR 1941

ORAL BAKER, Editor.
ROBERT KOCHER, Brs. Mgt.

REVISING Logau's lines, we find "Though the Mills of God grind slowly, the Grist comes exceedingly fine," and see Central Washington College as a giant Mill, public-powered. In contact with the ever-present Millstones, faculty and administration, comes the Grist, students, for transformation from raw material to a state best suited to the needs of society. As the Mill turns we see the Grist in the several processes: athletics, music, student publications. In major and minor organizations, more polish is gained. Time is found for social life when the Mill is at rest. Not pausing after five decades of operation, the Mill finds its task only begun, its usefulness far from outlived; periodic repairs are made, the Grist continues to arrive and depart in a never-decreasing stream. Unmoved by the elements, it turns out its products of unsurpassed quality.

THE MILL ★

Seen from the campus entrance is the historic Administration Building, one half-century old.

WE present to you this 1941 Hyakem, relating, that you may remember, the events which form the history of Central Washington College. In story and picture alike we have recorded your experiences and associations, for the reliving of these adventures in years to come.

★ ★ FOREWORD ★ ★

★ DEDICATION ★ ★

TO the twenty thousand Alumni, products of the Mill, who by their consistent efforts have raised the standards of public education, we respectfully dedicate this 1941 Hyakem.

Vivid coloring of fall foliage thrills us — the triangle—in early evening.

Through contact with The Millstones,—here, the college faculty and administration—The Grist—school enrollees—is processed in its passage through the Mill.

The President's Message ★ ★

DR. ROBERT E. McCONNELL
President

THE Central Washington College of Education has served the State of Washington for half a century. Many citizens have received a part of their formal education here and several thousand teachers have been educated and certified. Their training represents the profits from the investment that the people of Washington have made in the institution.

In this book is reviewed briefly that last fifty years of life on the campus and, more fully, it is a record of the last year viewed through the lens of a camera. It is a colorful book of history of the activities of the year and of those who have played parts therein. We will all cherish the happy memories of comradeship and associations that will be called to mind when we leaf through this Hyakem in future years. I am happy to have had a part in the life of our college during the last decade.

ROBERT E. McCONNELL,
President.

College has entered into your life, why not see what you can do with it.

O. H. HOLMES, Jr.
Dean of Men

The splendid cooperation of students and faculty has made guiding this year's program a real satisfaction and pleasure.

HELEN MINERVA ELWORTHY
Dean of Women

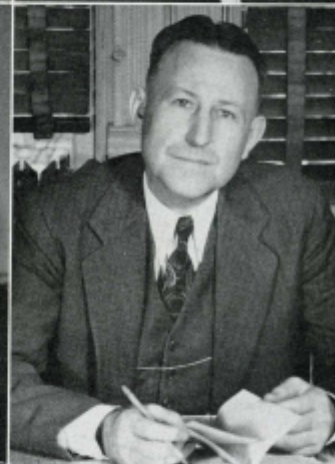

In celebration of its fiftieth anniversary the Central Washington College of Education re-dedicates itself to the service of the State which founded it to the United States of America, and to the Democratic Way of Life.

H. J. WHITNEY,
Registrar

Anniversaries like this one remind us that social institutions persist. Yet it isn't primarily the physical plant or the material equipment or even the personnel of the institution that is commemorated. Fundamentally, social institutions represent human aspirations, ideals, convictions, and much-honored traditions these alumni cherish.

If "Ellensburg" deserves to persist, it will because of the idealism, the high social aims, and the broad humanitarianism it embodies.

E. E. SAMUELSON,
Director of Personnel

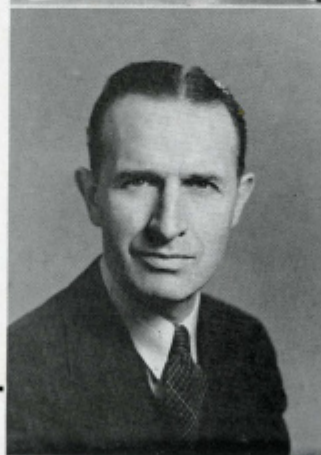

Work you like to do, the capacity to enjoy good things, a real concern for the common welfare—these are great wealth.

ERNEST L. MUZZALL,
Director of Public Service

This Golden Anniversary is for you the beginning of golden opportunities which lie ahead.

KENNETH COURSON,
Business Manager

TO EFFECT a closer relationship between undergraduates and alumni, the graduate group reorganized during Homecoming week end, elected officers, and provided for projects preliminary to direct action next year.

The program of the association this year has necessarily been limited to studies of alumni activity, and their application to the local situation. The spring meeting consisted of discussion toward the co-ordination of alumni activities with the college, in the community, and elsewhere. With the completion of this groundwork, the alumni plan to field an effective organization in the near future.

ASSOCIATED STUDENT BODY

IN THE words of A. S. B. President Wayne Roberg, "It has been the desire of the Associated Student Council to serve the students as efficiently and as effectively as possible. Many projects have been undertaken to further the progress of the student body and to strengthen the effectiveness of that organization."

An exhaustive list of projects is the result of the Council activity. More important among these are the new campus bulletin boards, near the Lounge, in the Post Office, in the Library, and in the three dorms; the appropriation of funds for new publications offices; the establishment of a new Senior award system for three outstanding members of the graduating class; the building of new trophy case and scorers' table for the physical education department; the supervision of the complete revision of the college handbook; and the supervision of the Homecoming activities including a special edition of the Campus Crier, postcards sent to alumni, and publicity in community clubs.

Other projects were the sending of letters to clubs and other groups for suggestions and criticisms; the maintenance of the Student Lounge, and recordings for the Lounge machine; the building of a new door for the main entrance to the Administration Building; the provision for half-time entertainment at athletic contests; cooperation with the Public Service department in sponsoring High School Senior Day; the appropriation to the Meisner memorial; and the redesigning of the A. S. B. official stationery.

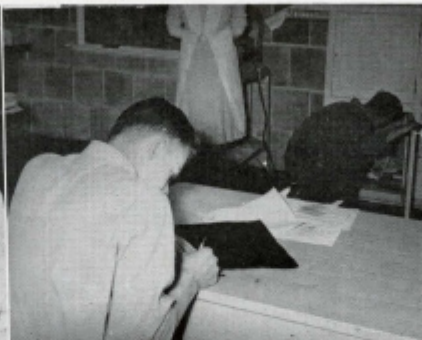

ASSOCIATED WOMEN STUDENTS

THE Associated Women Students, largest organization on the campus, officially opened the college social season by giving a welcoming tea for all students and faculty the first Sunday of Fall Quarter. Another student-faculty tea was sponsored by A. W. S. immediately preceding the Christmas holiday.

Due to the flu epidemic, the Snowball, annual tolo dance directed by the organization, was held at the beginning of the winter quarter, instead of during Christmas month, as originally scheduled.

Spring projects included a fashion show and the direction of Mothers' Week-End activities.

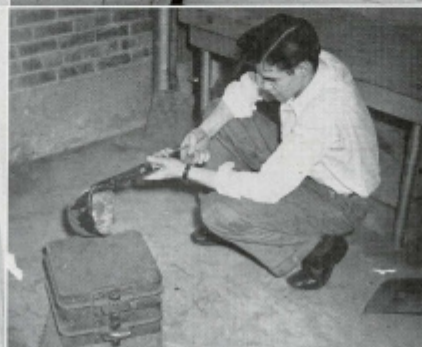

Each month throughout the year a mixer was held for all women in the old gymnasium.

IT IS the traditional privilege of the Senior class to sit back and act as an advisory group to the rest of the classes. However, this year's class, determined to be remembered after graduation, were responsible for the rebirth of the Varsity Ball. This last informal dance of the year was held after the Winko track and field meet of late spring.

This year's class has the double distinction of being the largest class to graduate from the college since its founding, and also of being the 50th anniversary class.

HIGHLIGHTING the activities of the Junior class this year was their presentation of—to use their own terms—a super colossal barn dance during the winter quarter. The decorations committee really went to town in fixing up the gym. An abundance of hay, some very realistic cows, chickens and other farmyard inhabitants were among the articles these ingenious Juniors managed to find. The final stamp of authority was put on the party by ink-stamping each customer's hand with a chicken at the time of arrival. (Confidentially, those charged with the duty found it most pleasant at times!)

During the spring quarter, the class sponsored a Junior-Senior theater party that was the envy of all underclassmen. On the whole, the Juniors have been one of the most active groups on the campus and could always be counted on to do their share in everything.

On Valentine's day came the annual Cupid's Informal. Each year the sophomore class sponsors this winter quarter informal, which is a tolo affair. Each year's class tries to out-do the preceding one, and this year's representatives succeeded admirably. Authorities of the subject acclaimed it one of the best yet.

FOR THE Freshmen, activities started early fall quarter, with the informal "Rural Review" dance. At Homecoming, the class—whose job is traditionally to build the giant bonfire—constructed, after many interruptions, a specimen of magnitude unrivalled in recent years.

A skating party highlighted the class get-togethers for winter quarter. Under supervision of class officers, the Freshmen presented the annual Frosh Frolic honoring the class of '41 early in Spring Quarter. The decorations committee did an excellent piece of work in transforming the Old Gym into a cheap east-side town restaurant known as "Joe's Place." The tavern had a gala "opening," and all guests enjoyed themselves immensely.

IN MEMORIAM

JACK TOMLINSON

IN MEMORY of an outstanding athlete, respected by all, we pay tribute by dedicating this sports section of the 1941 Hyakem to Jack Tomlinson.

The memorial plaque, pictured above, was presented to the Student Body in honor of Jack, captain of this year's football team, who passed away shortly after the close of the season. The presentation of the memorial was made by Bob Miller, President of the W Club, to President Robert E. McConnell, who accepted and presented the plaque for Student Body acceptance. The plaque has been placed in the entrance hall of the College Gymnasium.

His was truly a Central Washington College character, always doing for others, expecting little in return. To him can well be applied the old adage, "None knew him but to love him or named him but to praise."

OF ATHLETICS FOR 1941

NOW THAT another year of sports has been completed, it is a good time to review the sport high-lites of 1940-41. Coach Leo Nicholson and his footballers placed third in the Winko Conference. The Wildcats had one of the best teams in history, but the breaks failed them. Pacific Lutheran won the championship by winning four straight games. The Wildcats are expected to be in the thick for the conference title next year. Nicholson will have many sophomores to build his 1941 grid team.

The Winko cage race was one of the closest in history with PLC winning the final game from the Wildcats and thus the crown. The Cats won the title last year. The Central Washington team was built around several new faces and Coach Nicholson is expected to bring forth a winner next year.

In track Coach George Mabee had one of the strongest teams in the Winko Conference. Last year the Wildcats lost the championship to Cheney by two points. Pat Martin was elected captain of the 1941 track team. In early season meets the Wildcats defeated Yakima Junior College, University of Washington Frosh, St. Martin's and Pacific Lutheran, and Western Washington by very large margins. The conference meet was held in Ellensburg.

The 1941 golf and tennis championships were held in Ellensburg. The tennis squad and the golfers have shone very promising results in early season play and were expected to rank very high in the conference meet.

Wildcats 12 -- Vikings 13

NOSED OUT on a last-second touchdown, the Central Washington Wildcats fell victims to the Western Washington gridders in the opening tilt of the year for the Wildcats. The Cats lost to the tune of 13-12. Pat Martin scored both touchdowns for the Ellensburg team. This game did not count in the league standings. Jim North at tackle and George Pitt at full-back played the best ball for the Cats. The tilt was played at Bellingham.

Wildcats 7 -- Savages 14

OUTPLAYED at every turn, Eastern Washington Savages relied on breaks in the first and third period to down Central Washington by a 14-7 score. The Wildcats were, once again, the victims of the Cheney Jinx which has followed them for the last five years. Time and time again the Cats made bids for a score only to be stalled by either pass interceptions or penalties. Tomlinson scored for Central on a pass from Miller.

Wildcats 32 -- Gonzaga Frosh 6

MAKING their first home start of the season, the Cats hammered the Gonzaga Freshmen by a 32-6 count. The Wildcats defeated a big and fast team. Gonzaga looked better than the score stated. Coach Leo Nicholson unveiled a team that had power to waste and a beautiful passing attack. Jim North, Tom Matelak, Jim Neander, Clipper Carmody, and Lloyd Rowley scored touchdowns for the CWCE footballers. Chuck Carr kicked the points after touchdown.

Wildcats 32 -- Rangers 0

A TERRIFIC running attack engineered by the Central Washington backs and a stalwart line enabled the Wildcats to gain a 32-0 victory over the St. Martin's Rangers in a tilt played at Olympia. The win was the second in a row for the Cats. The game did not count in the league standings. Playing under ideal conditions, Coach Leo Nicholson used everyone except the water boy and managers. Martin, North, Goodman, Matelak, and Wilson scored touchdowns for the Central Washington eleven.

Wildcats 7 -- Vikings 0

PLAYING before a large Homecoming crowd, the CWCE gridsters defeated the Western Washington players, stalled off two Bellingham scoring threats, and then in the final period crossed the Viking goal for the game's only touchdown. Lounsberry scored for Central Washington. Chuck Carr place-kicked the extra point. Pitt, Kern, and Harney were outstanding on defense for the Cats, while Matelak and Neander shone well in the backfield. The kicking of Glen Farris was one of the outstanding features of the thrill-packed game.

Wildcats 0 -- Lutherans 14

LED BY Marv Harshman, the Pacific Lutheran College Gladiators defeated the Ellensburg pigskinners 14-0 in a game played in Tacoma before 7,000 fans. The Lutherans scored their first touchdown on a break and the second was scored in the same manner. During the final period the Cats were within the Glads' 20-yard line ten times, only to fail to score. By virtue of the win the Glads won the Winko championship. Last year they tied with Cheney for the crown. The win was the second for the PLC eleven from the Wildcats in ten years. Miller and Tomlinson were both injured in this game.

Wildcats 32 -- Rangers 0

THE FINAL game of the Washington Intercollegiate conference football season found the Ellensburg players winning from the St. Martin's Rangers by a 32-0 score in a game played on a snow-covered field. All of the Wildcats' touchdowns came in the final half of the Thanksgiving Day tilt. Seven men played their final game for the Wildcats. They were Captain Jack Tomlinson, Allen Goodman, Tom Matelak, Jim Lounsberry, George Pitt, Americo Bostenero, and Commodore Burnett.

Football Award Winner

ALLAN GOODMAN was voted the Rotary Trophy for the 1940 football season, an award which he had received in the fall of 1938. His play at end was only one of his outstanding features. This was his final season with the Wildcat gridders.

Jack Tomlinson, senior, was elected Honorary Captain by his teammates. On defense he was one of the best blockers in the Winko league, and his work of handling the players was of high caliber.

The Moser Award was won by Woodrow Wilson. Wilson is a junior and played as a reserve halfback. The Moser Award is presented to a football player with the highest grade point average.

SEASON SEES WILDCATS TRIUMPHANT

Bellingham Series

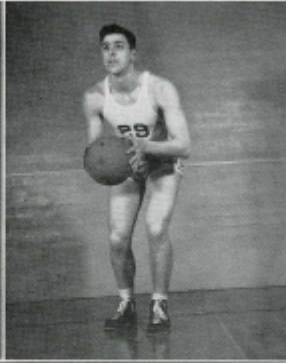

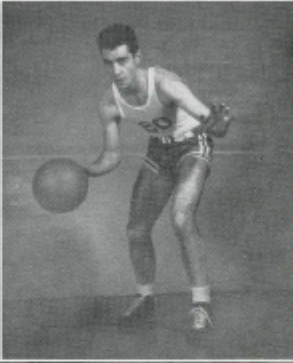

TRADITIONAL basketball rivalry between the Wildcats and the Western Washington Vikings was resumed four times during the current season, with the CWCE boys holding a 3 to 1 game edge at the end. In the opening series held at Ellensburg the local players won both games by scores of 50-30 and 31-26. When the Wildcats traveled to Bellingham the Vikings and the Cats split the series. Ellensburg won the first game 40-93 and Western the second 39-37. Last year the two teams split on the four game series.

Cheney Series

DOPESTERS picked the Wildcats as the team to end in the cellar of the Winko league in 1941, but Coach Nicholson developed a strong team mostly out of freshmen. In the opening series held at Ellensburg the Cats split with the highly favored Cheney outfit. It is Dorey's last second shot that won the first game. The Wildcats won 35-33 and the Savages came back to win the second game 41-39. In the two games played at Cheney the hometowners won 53-41, but the CWCE players came back the second night and waxed the Savages to the tune of 36-29.

Pacific Lutheran Series

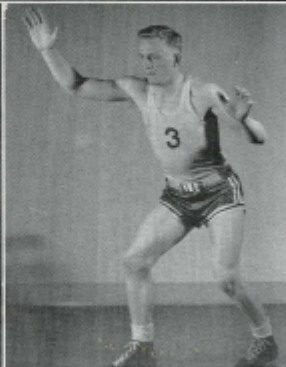

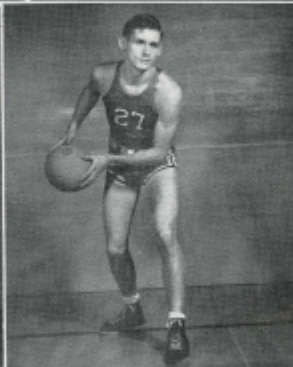

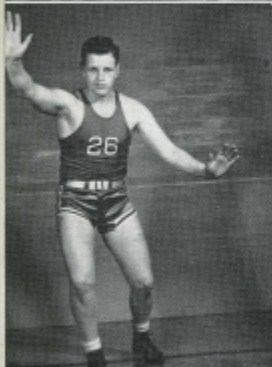

ALTHOUGH Pacific Lutheran won the Winko casaba title, they did not seem to be a problem for the Wildcats. The Ellensburg players won the opening game here by the score of 53-24. The Lutes came back the second night and nosed out a 54-50 over the Cats. When the Cats traveled to Tacoma to meet the Glads, they split the two games. Ellensburg won the first tilt 43-41. If the Wildcats could have won the second game they would have won the conference title, but the Glads won the game and the championship. The score was 38-32. This was the final game of the season. Carmody led the team scorers with 117 points when the final whistle sounded to bring down another chapter in CWCE basketball history.

Wildcats -- Rangers Series

ST. MARTIN'S caused the Ellensburg players plenty of trouble during the 1941 schedule, but the Wildcats finally won three of the four games played. The first two game series was played at Ellensburg and the Cats won both by scores of 53-37 and 42-30. When the Central players traveled to Olympia the Rangers won the opener by five points in a 49-44 game. In the second game the Nicholson-coached eagles had to turn on the heat to defeat the Rangers 44-40. Last year the Wildcats won four for four from the Rangers.

Basketball Award Winners

MICKEY ROGERS won the Honorary Captain award for the 1941 basketball season. Rogers was one of the best checkers on the Wildcat squad and was a good scorer. He will be back next year.

Bob Miller was voted the Inspirational Award by his teammates. Miller was a substitute guard, but when he was in the game he sparked the basketballers on to victory.

ON THE CINDER TRACK ★

WINNERS in their first five meets, Central Washington trackmen were expected to be in the thick of the Winko track championship which was held here late in May. The strong Wildcat cinder squad, the strongest in the history of the school, defeated Yakima Junior College, University of Washington freshmen, St. Martin's and Pacific Lutheran, Western Washington, and Eastern Washington in early season meets.

Trailing by four points before the final event, the Wildcats captured the mile relay to nose out the Cheney cindermen 66-65 in a thrill-packed meet held at Ellensburg. Jack Orchard defeated the Savage anchorman by a hundred yards in the final lap of the relay. Upsets were numerous and two conference marks fell. Orchard, switched from the quarter to run the dashes, won the 100-yard dash in :09.6 for a new record while Ray Slorah ran the half mile in 2:00.1 for another record.

The Wildcat team was hampered with illness throughout the season, but Coach George Mabee had plenty of reserve material in all events. Pat Martin, star hurdler, was voted the captain of the track squad by his teammates.

Besides the showings of Orchard and Slorah several other men on the team showed plenty of power in the early meets: Roger Jones, sprinter and hurdler; Hal Berndt, sprint champ; Glen Farris, weightman deluxe; and Tom Bridges, middle-distance man.

MINUS the services of Clint Knox, conference singles champion, Coach Leo Nicholson built his 1941 tennis team around Clyde Knox and Ray Whitfield, letter winners last year. Clyde and Clint Knox, twins, knocked the props out from under every opponent they faced in 1940 and they were the main factors in Central's march to the Winko net title. To round out the team in 1941 Coach Nicholson took players from a physicial education class in tennis. Wally Arbanas, Bill Ames, Jack Catlin, and Joe Clayton were the new members on the '41 squad. The conference meet was held in Ellensburg.

WITH Jim North and Bob Loggazzino leading the way, Central Washington had one of the strongest divot teams in the league. In early season matches the golfers had only lost one match. Western won the golf title in 1940 for the seventh consecutive year. Central lost the title by two strokes in 1940, but was expected to place high in the conference meet which was held in Ellensburg. North was the only returning letterman from the past season. Spithill, Hildebrand, Meyers, Lounsberry, and Loggazzino were the new men to make the team.

ATHLETIC PROGRAM IS IDEAL

WOMEN'S athletics have occupied a greater place in campus activity this year than ever before. WAA was largely responsible for this, enthusiastically backing all sports which the girls wished to inaugurate. Too, women's athletics received greater recognition in the campus paper this year; Jackie Laws of WAA made sure each week that good mention was made of the tournaments in progress.

Added to the list of sports offered the girls this year was clogging. There has been sufficient variety in the number of sports offered, that each girl needed to take part in only the ones in which she was most interested.

A RECORD OF FORTY-ONE

THIS YEAR we of the Hyakem have endeavored to produce a book of lasting value. What may appear to be an excess of copy at present will, we feel certain, be welcomed within a few short years. Our memories grow dim much too fast; hence, we need many "props" to recall the many activities which seem so vivid at present.

We have been extremely fortunate in obtaining a color photography section for this, the Golden Anniversary yearbook. In addition, careful planning has resulted in shots of nearly all events—social, educational, athletic—being included.

All in all, we have attempted to compile a treasure chest of college memories under the heading of Hyakem—1941. We hope that we have succeeded.

Heidenrich, Spring, Dasenbrock Cover Campus with Camera

THE Hyakem staff this year has worked hard and long to produce the '41 annual. While the verdict as to the results rests entirely with you, as readers, we wish to give credit to certain individuals whose work has been outstanding.

Beverly Heidenrich and J. Henry Dasenbrock handled the photography department very successfully. The amount of campus shots appearing throughout the book is indicative of the fact that these two were on the scene all the time and were ready to "shoot" at a moment's notice.

Virginia McAdams and Alton Knoke took charge of the art work of the yearbook, and are to be highly commended for their originality and cleverness.

Carrying the burden of the sports section alone was Hal Berndt. Having served as sports editor for the Campus Crier, Berndt was fully qualified for this position.

Loren Troxel and Jane Mogren, journalists borrowed from the Crier office, assumed the task of copy-writing. Both took their responsibilities seriously and were determined to turn in the best write-ups of which they were capable.

CAMPUS CRIER

IS WEEKLY ROUND-UP OF IMPORTANT STUDENT NEWS

ACCORDING to information from critic sources today, the Campus Crier, college weekly, has this year gained new heights in reporting the life and activities of Central Washington College.

Milestones on this road to better newspaper coverage were special editions, a six-page Crier at Homecoming, the Christmas week number the Jack Tomlinson edition, the Music special, and a golden anniversary issue near Commencement week.

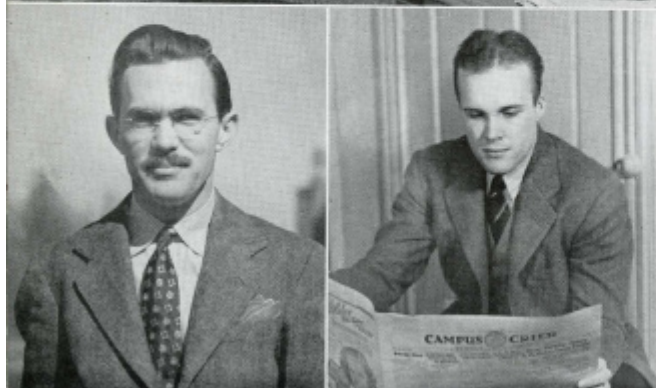

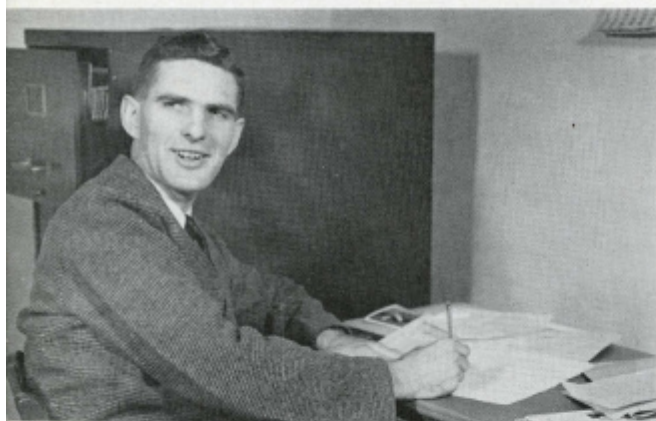

New to the paper this year were "Forty-One", a campus-civic-national commentary column; "The Bachelors' Table", household hints and recipes department; and "Attire Array", a campus fashions section. The veteran "Kampus Korn" returned to entertain readers. A new running-head, bearing the college seal, was designed and installed.

Under the direction of Editor Loren Troxel and an Associated Student Council Committee the editorial room in the Administration Building was completely remodeled. From these improved quarters came the newspaper claimed best in many departments.

To Omar Parker, business manager, goes credit for the financial success of the Crier; he maintained a balance of advertising to supplement A. S. B. appropriations, so that the paper ended the year "in the black".

Dr. Donald E. MacRae, English department head, was faculty adviser.

Crier Under Troxel Gives to Students Improved News Coverage ★ ★ ★ ★

"WE WERE fortunate in having a staff of varied interest this year," said Editor Troxel in an interview this week, "for without that quality, we would have been unable to publish a paper of this caliber."

More than forty students, representing every department, alternated at positions on the staff throughout the year. Sports editors were: Fall, Mat Tomac; winter, Hal Berndt and Jack Hasbrouck; and spring, Bob Groeschell, giving the best coverage of the Winko Conference. Music Editors Louis Hendrix and Dave McCracken covered that department as well as concerts and programs.

Herbert Legg was assistant editor and author of "Forty-One". Jane Mogren volunteered to set "The Bachelor's Table". With an eye for campus clothes, Lorna Penner compiled "Attire Array". "Kampus Korn" saw its second year of service from the pen of Bob Koehler.

The staff included such writers as Betty Biner, features; Anne Brukett, news; Mervin Carriere, sports; Jim Connell, news; Maryon Cotton, news and features; Madred Danes, news; Dick Dunnington, news; Art Peroglia, sports; Elsa Griffith, news; Anita Haight, news; Alice Hamilton, news; Lois Hammill, assemblies; Shirley Hand, features; Mel Hunter, news; Heini Karjala, news; Marquerite Kelley, drama; Jackie Laws, Women's Athletics; Eldon Lindsay, features; Andy Nealley, features; Wayne Roberg, features; Marie Rumford, news; Mary Louise Sloan, features; Dick Sparks, features; Lois Stewart, news; Eugene Snawver, sports; Judith Van Lammeren, features; Roy Wahle, news; Maxine West, features; and Ray Whitfield, sports.

Much credit for the success of the Campus Crier this year goes to Mr. Roy Gilmore, typesetter, and Mr. Beck Hubbell, owner of the Ellensburg Capital, the printing office.

MUSIC DRAMA

A Cappella Choir

The 1940-41 A Cappella Choir, and director, Mr. Wayne Hertz.

Male Quartet in action:
Bill Ames, Louis Hendrix, Don
Drysdale, Bob Wren.

College String Quartet:
Clifton Alford, Eugene Hunt,
Dolores Plath, Mr. Steinhardt.

DISPLAYING remarkable technique in presenting its many concerts, the 64-voice a cappella choir wound up another successful season under the direction of Wayne S. Hertz. Radio audiences first heard the group on the college broadcasts. First public appearance of the choir was at Christmas-time, in the "Nativity" production. Important mid-year project was the performance of the majority of numbers for the second annual Choral Clinic of Region I of the Music Educators' National Conference. Next came the winter quarter all-college concert, at which the men's and women's glee clubs, division groups, sang in addition to the master choir. C. E. Myers, as guest conductor, directed the women's numbers.

Concert tours were the major part of the spring program. On the first two trips to Spokane and vicinity, concerts were given at the Northwest Music Educators' Conference; the group participated in a college choir festival, sang an exchange concert at E. W. C. E. at Cheney, and sang a program at Ritzville High School. The second visit included broadcast programs and appearances before the Inland Empire Education Association sessions. These were followed by a concert in Cle Elum the next week. April 28 to May 1, saw the choir on its annual extended tour, this time to communities in West-Central Washington, and Southwest Washington, Seattle, Enumclaw, Olympia, Shelton, Hoquiam, Aberdeen, Montesano, Centralia, and Chehalis. Guest soloists Juanita Davies, piano, and Milton Steinhardt, violin, appeared with the choir on numerous occasions, as did the college male quartet.

MUSIC DEPARTMENT

★ Noted as State's Finest in Nineteen Forty-one ★

THROUGH the endeavors of the four faculty members, the reputation of the music department has spread far and wide. Besides producing first-class organizations, the department, as a college division, has sponsored major music events and has performed field work. First major event of the year was the second annual choral clinic in January on this campus, with Mr. Hertz as chairman of Region I of the Music Educators' National Conference as head. Next came a three-day lecture series given by Julian De Gray, visiting artist-counselor from Bennington College. In the Spring Quarter the college sponsored the Central Washington School Music Competition-Festival, with over 1400 high school musicians coming to the campus to compete and perform.

All of these activities are in addition to the regular work each member carries. Mr. Wayne S. Hertz is head of the department, choir director, elementary school supervisor, and professor of music. Miss Jaunita Davies is instructor of piano and organ, and assistant professor of music. Also assistant professor is Mr. Milton Steinhardt, who directs the orchestra. Mr. C. E. Meyers is band conductor, instructor in music and adviser of Sigma Mu Epsilon, campus music club.

THE college string quartet has long filled a need in the music department which cannot be answered by larger groups. It is primarily not a public performance group, but merits existence through value to the members themselves. Standards of musicianship are maintained through study and practice of works of the masters.

PROOF of the popularity of the college male quartet is the response of audiences wherever the boys sang. Bill Ames, first tenor, Louis Hendrix, second tenor, Don Drysdale, baritone, and Bob Wren, bass, were chosen to sing in this group the past year. Their calendar included appearances at community clubs, college concerts, campus clubs, and as guest artists on the choir tour programs.

Typical voice lesson, Hertzian style: "Come on, sing!" barks Instructor Hertz to Dorothy Stevens.

Mr. Steinhardt and
The College Orchestra.

The Band practices field formations.

OF lasting value to the thirty members of the college orchestra is the performance of compositions of highest caliber. Emphasis was placed, in this organization, on becoming familiar with and mastering these selections rather than on preparing a few numbers for public appearance. Mr. Milton Steinhardt, conductor, directed the study of the classics, of which Vivoldi's "Concerto for Strings," the Dittersdorf "Symphony in F Major" and movements from Haydn symphonies were the more important. In addition to these, works of Dvorak and Schubert were performed, as well as lighter works. The orchestra appeared before college audiences three times this year in quarterly concerts, the final one an evening program in conjunction with the band.

ORCHESTRA and BAND

Spend Active Year in Various Community and Student Affairs

UNDER the direction of Cloice E. Myers, the 44 piece band went through another highly successful year. Starting "right in the public eye," the band played at all home football games. They made a colorful marching unit, performing many original and clever maneuvers during each half-time. Particularly notable were their formations at the Homecoming game.

In addition to their performances as a pep band, the group assumed a more dignified role as a concert band. Three concerts were given in the College Auditorium; the spring concert was given jointly with the college orchestra. As is customary, the group made several short trips to neighboring towns to play. Each performance was greatly enjoyed, from all reports.

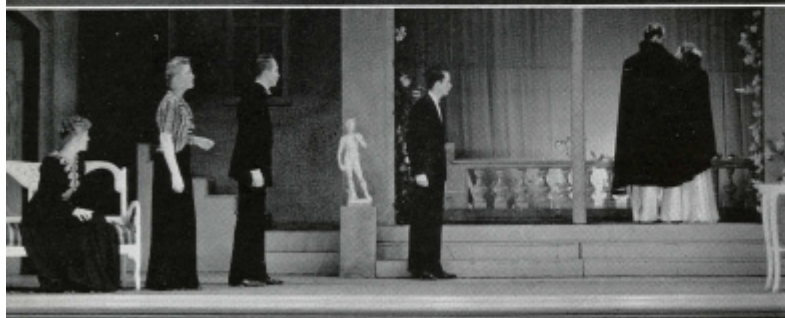

Mr. Myers gives Wilma Oliver a few pointers about the baritone.

DRAMA

Grazia chooses to accompany Death as he concludes his earthly visit.

Death Takes a Holiday ---

WALTER Ferris' adaption of Cassela's "Death Takes a Holiday" was produced on the college stage December 5, under the direction of Margaret Whyte Stevenson. The play, a product of World War I, was written "by an Italian soldier whose artistic sensitivity drew from the devastation of war a concept of human values that reached into the eternal." An extension of the Freudian philosophy that reaches into the shadow, the play deals with the mystic theme of the cycle of life and death and the peculiar significance of love. Death, in the form of the fascinating continental prince, His Serene Highness, Prince Sirki of Vitalba Alexandri, crashes into the serene life of a wealthy Italian family and guests on a holiday.

Best performances on the local stage were turned in by Bob Love, as the Prince, and Philip Walker as Baron Cesorea. The dispatching of the numerous details of production was effected by Miss Stevenson and the staff of Mark Hipkins, Lois Seaton, Jessie Loudon, Lillian Gregory, Mary Elizabeth Rennie, Dorothy Davis, Eugene Marx, Elva Sehmel, Charles Randall, and Eldon Lindsay. Special acknowledgments go to Miss Elizabeth Hosking, Miss Dorothy Dean, Mr. O. W. Nelson, Miss Helen Michaelsen, Miss Spurgeon and painting class, and to the college string quartet and Miss Jaunita Davis for musical setting.

PROGRAM IS COMPLETE ★

A BRILLIANT college cast, under the direction of Miss Margaret Whyte Stevenson, chose as their winter quarter production Clare Boothe's satirical melodrama, "Margin for Error." The first successful play dealing with the National Socialist Revolution, it is a caustic condemnation of the activities of the Nazi machine in America. The instrument of convincing American rebuttal to National Socialism is Moe Finklestein, a Jewish policeman, sent to guard the German consulate, more than adequately portrayed on the local stage by Elio Cava. The play revolving around the contemptible Karl Baumer, the German Consul, (Cleon McConnell) holds many elements of popular appeal. It not only handles the problem of Nazi philosophy, but has a full-fledged murder mystery, the solving of which makes occasion for much humor.

Margin for Error - - -

There's a final tense moment as the exasperated Mulrooney, Captain of the homicide squad approaches the alcove to view the body of the slain consul.

Artists' Life

A Tale of Strauss

Members of the cast for Artists' Life get their first glimpse of the scripts which C. Robert Love has just turned over to them.

Informal shot backstage catches Miss Stevenson "lining them up."

Why so pensive, Detty?

CULMINATING more than a year's work by the author, "An Artist's Life, a tale of Strauss," was presented to a college audience near the close of Spring Quarter. Written and directed by C. Robert Love, Central Washington College drama major, it is the first major production of student source here.

With the realization that the life of Johann Strauss lends easily to dramatics, Mr. Love made his play the treatment of the dramatic side of the musician's life, rather than the musical side. It differs from other plays of the life of Strauss in that music fits the story, not the story, music. Authentic biography is the basis of the production with incidental coloring effected by the author. The production departed from standardized form, being a combination of movie and radio techniques in a sequence of scenes rather than acts.

Miss Margaret Stevenson supervised the staging, and advised the directing of the play. The cast of characters included:

Erich.....	Philip Walker
Johann I.....	Eugene Marx
Johann II.....	Bob Matheson
Carl.....	John Pickens
Josef Lanner.....	Victor Forsythe
Anna.....	Mary Elizabeth Rennie

Professor Nealley as chairman of the Radio Committee looks on as Bob Kocher, head technician, adjusts the dials. The clock says, "Five minutes to go!"

Program announcer Oliver Nelson presents the student forum with Roy Wahle, Alpha Allen, Elva Sehmel and James Palmer.

WITH a two-fold function in mind, President McConnell appointed an official faculty Radio Committee to plan and produce college radio programs. Professor W. G. Nealley was named chairman of the group, consisting of Harold Barto, Wayne S. Hertz, Ernest Muzzall, and Oliver Nelson. To serve as associate members, Andrew Mathews and Margaret Whyte Stevenson were added to the committee. Purposes of the broadcast series, the theme of which was "Interpreting Modern Education" were to further public relations and provide information concerning the scope of a teacher's college, giving subjects of an educational and entertaining nature.

Music, drama, and forums had places on the programs once per month, with balance maintained among the other college departments. Main problem of the year was in presenting music, caused by the current ASCAP difficulty.

Broadcasts were Wednesday evenings from 8:30 to 9:00, by remote control, over Yakima's station, KIT. The programs were produced in A & S 100, where complete equipment has been installed. Bob Kocher and Ed Cornwall as student technicians had charge of the control room.

UNDER provisions set forth by the Civil Aeronautics Authority, courses in Civilian Pilot Training have been offered at Central Washington College the past year. The work is offered under the Science Department with Dr. W. W. Newchwander in charge of the ground school.

The Ellensburg Municipal airport has been serving as the home field for the training planes. Improvements were effected by new owners Eric Moe and Maurice Balcom, who erected a new office, installed a machine shop, and provided for a transportation system. Mac Anderson is airport manager and Frank Kammer and Jerry Anderson are the flight instructors.

Ground school met eight hours weekly to study navigation and meteorology, with flight instruction time arranged individually. After eight hours of dual flying, the student is allowed to solo. Following 27 more hours, or a total of 35 in all, he may take the pilots license examination which also covers ground school work. Upon receipt of the pilots' license, the student is liable to call for further work in the Army Air Corps.

Only the primary program has been offered, but plans are being made for the inclusion of a secondary course leading to a restricted commercial license in the near future.

MORE active in campus life than any other group from the dormitories, the men of Munson started a banner year by sponsoring an all-school theater party and stage show on the eve of the first football game. Following this with major participation in Homecoming activities, the group captured first prize in the animated sign contest. With funds thus raised, and from other sources, a new washing machine was purchased by the hall.

Winter quarter activities were limited to a fireside series—some exchanges, other purely date affairs. Always considered major events on the calendar, the firesides added much to winter social life.

The annual Faculty Breakfast was held in the spring. To the college dining hall, each man brought the faculty man of his choice for Sunday breakfast and program.

SUE'S major activities of the year began with the Homecoming celebration when the girls prepared a skit, sign, and a float. Also, for the first time, Sue girls gave a tea for alumni during Homecoming.

Perhaps the event that will stand out in the memories of the girls more than any other of this year at Sue Lombard Hall will be the "Storybook Party"—strictly for girls. Here, everyone dressed up to represent their favorite storybook characters. The party was greatly enjoyed by everyone because of its originality and sparkle.

The girls entertained in honor of Mrs. Rainey, their housemother, on the occasion of her birthday.

Also on the calendar were a St. Patrick's fireside, and the annual Spring Formal, which was held May 17.

KAMOLA HALL ★

THE annual get-acquainted party for all hall members drew up the curtain on another year of Kamola activities early last fall. During Homecoming, the hall received second prize at Stunt Night for their clever skit, "Nola of Kamola." Fall quarter activities were climaxed by a "stag" Christmas party at which several engagements were announced.

During the year several firesides were held, both for girls of Kamola exclusively, and for outsiders as well. Basketball season presented the occasion to give a fireside in honor of the men of P. L. C. after one of the games.

The highlight of the year was, of course, the Moonglow formal held during spring quarter. The "Night Club" theme was used in decorating, and the effect was superb.

The girls were fortunate in again having as their housemother the very friendly and charming Mrs. Mary Reynolds.

NOW in its fourth year on the campus, Delta Omicron chapter of Kappa Delta Pi has maintained a full activities calendar. Purpose of the society, a national honor society in education, is to encourage high intellectual and scholastic standards and to recognize outstanding contributions to education.

New project to the local chapter was the aid given the public service department of the college in visiting valley high schools and speaking to students about the college.

Other activities included an Alumni luncheon at Homecoming, lower class recognition tea, pledge breakfasts, news-letter publications, social meetings in homes of Counselor Simpson and Dean Whitney, and the annual spring banquet.

SIGMA MU EPSILON ★ ★ ★

MAIN project of the year for the campus music organization was the presentation of a series of student recitals. Club members and other campus musicians were presented in short evening concerts at intervals during the school year. Success in the venture was assured by the audience response at each program.

Of no minor importance was the continued maintenance of a music library in the Music Building. This year the room was remodeled, with provisions made for future additions.

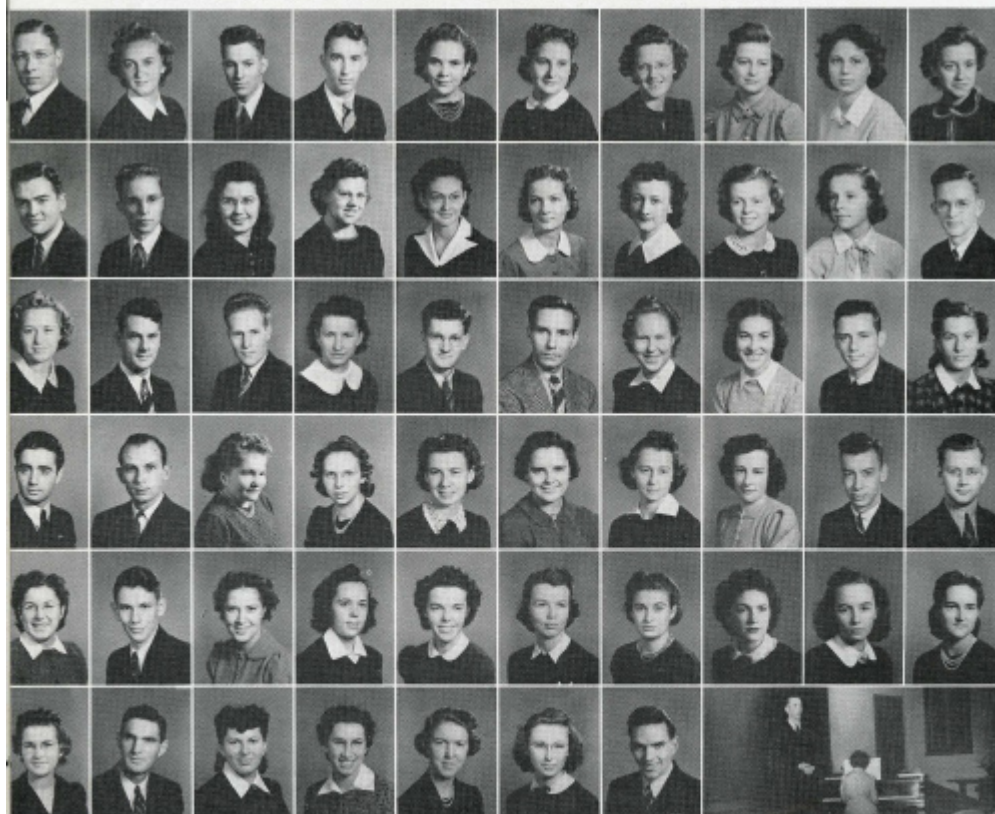

During the visit of Julian De Gray to the campus in early February, Sigma Mu feted that artist-lecturer at a banquet in the college dining hall.

Additional projects of the club included ushering at music concerts and assisting in the management of the Central Washington School Music Competition Festival.

NEWMAN CLUB

AFFILIATED with the Newman club, national Newman Club Federation, the campus chapter is devoted to Catholic culture and fellowship, carrying a program of religious, educational and social activities.

This year's calendar has included Frosh Week registration and party, Thanksgiving Party, monthly group communion-breakfast-meetings, and a spring picnic. During spring quarter the club sponsored Father Rheinhold in a campus lecture.

Under the direction of club member Ralph Manzo, the chapter choir has completed its second year of service.

LUTHERAN STUDENTS ASS'N

THE L. S. A. group on this campus, now in its third year, is a chapter of the national organization known as the Lutheran Students' Association of America.

The purpose of the organization is to provide opportunities for the development of closer Christian fellowship among Lutheran students on the campus.

The program for the year has been three-fold: social, religious, and educational. The year's activities included discussion groups, book reviews, supper parties, a picnic, and the publishing of a bi-monthly news-bulletin.

WHITBECK CLUB

FOR GEOGRAPHY majors and minors, and others interested in geography and travel, the Whitbeck Club is the campus organization in that field.

The first meeting of each quarter was of a social nature; speakers were invited to the others. College librarian, Miss Maurine Amstutz, related her adventures on "A Caribbean Cruise on a Freighter;" Dean of Women Helen Minerva Elworthy spoke on "Bicycling Through Europe." Miss Mae Hagen was invited to speak on "Peace River Country, Canada," and Herbert Combs spoke on "Posters from Foreign Lands."

All-college assemblies conducted by the group included Lewis Mumford's documentary film, "The City," and an illustrated lecture on Japan by Dr. H. H. Martin, chairman of the Department of Geography at the University of Washington.

HERODOTEANS

AN ORGANIZATION of students in the History Department, the Herodoteans are affiliated with the International Relations Clubs sponsored by the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace.

For the seventh year, the group has directed community-campus open forums for discussion of current national and world problems. Topics billed this season were "The Third Term," "Drifting Into War," and "Youth Faces the Future." A faculty member and community leaders were speakers at the first two, while the third was a radio broadcast of club member participation.

Social events came once a quarter, and included a cider and doughnut party in the fall, the annual banquet in winter, and the traditional bean feed in the spring.

Definite plans were laid for the founding of a Northwest History Museum on the campus, continuing a movement started by the late Professor Herbert C. Fish.

KAPPA PI

THIS year the outstanding accomplishment of the Art Club was its graduation to the rank of a national honorary. At a formal installation, followed by a formal reception, members of the Art Club became members of Alpha Beta chapter of Kappa Pi, national art honorary.

Kappa Pi members, distinguished for their cleverness and originality, were kept busy throughout the year fulfilling contracts for dance decorations. They did not spend all their time working however, for several trips were made by the group to outstanding art centers close at hand. The club also obtained temporarily two pieces of sculptoring from the Robinson Art galleries.

MASKERS AND JESTERS

During spring quarter, they joined with Kappa Pi members to present the Gay Nineties Ball, which is always a highlight in spring events for the whole school.

The club also contributed much to the Wednesday evening All-College radio broadcasts.

INTERCOLLEGIATE KNIGHTS

THE HISTORY of the fifth year of Claw chapter, Intercollegiate Knights, is a history of outstanding service to the college. With "Service" as their by-word, the men of the service honorary proved themselves indispensable in many fields.

Maintaining information desks for various events was one project of the chapter. Routine matters were the lining of the football field, parking cars, policing all sports events and setting up the bleachers.

Claw chapter had complete charge of the election and coronation of Homecoming Queen, in addition to serving in many other capacities in that week end of festivity including their own alumni breakfast.

Under the A. S. B. program, the Knights have ushered at assemblies, and maintained an assembly poster committee for publicity, and constructed a roster board for basketball games.

Invaluable assistance was rendered the Crier staff in circulation duties. Rounding off a highly successful year, the Knights assisted with the Central Washington School Music Competition Festival, Senior Day, and All-School Picnic activities.

IYOPTIANS

FORMERLY known as the Sophomore Service Society, the Iyoptians were organized on a permanent basis this year. Members are chosen from sophomore women, and are elected on the basis of character, leadership, participation in activities, service to the college, and satisfactory scholastic record. In the future, members will have uniforms and crimson and black emblems.

This year the club undertook, as its major project, the orientation of all new girls. The means they selected to acquaint the new girls with the older ones was a series of firesides given on Sunday evenings. Primarily a service organization, the club assisted with Homecoming activities, the Snowball, Senior Day, the Music Festival, All-School Picnic, Mothers' Week-End and Commencement.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

HAVING successfully weathered its first year of existence, the Home Economics club has now been recognized as an unusually active, and worthwhile campus organization.

The club was organized for the purpose of promoting a spirit of cooperation and friendliness among the Home Economics students. Membership in the organization is open to all majors and minors in the field.

The many activities instituted by the club during the year include an all-college fashion show, and sewing for the Elementary School children. Miss Effie Raitt, from the University of Washington, and head of the Home Economics Department there spoke to the girls on the professional opportunities in the field. Several members attended the Home Economics open-house at the University on April 18.

Work has been started on a new Campus Etiquette booklet similar to those put out by the University and State College.

METHODIST CO-OPERATIVE

UNDER the auspices of the Methodist Church, a student board-ing co-operative was organized this year for the students of C. W. C. E.

Co-operation was the password for the members. Each student contributed forty-five minutes each day toward the preparation of breakfast, dish-washing, room cleanup, or general food preparation. Mrs. E. Robinson assisted in the more difficult cooking processes.

In addition to cleaning and maintenance for the church, the cost of food included allowances for such items as replacement of breakage, electricity, and new equipment.

The success of organization is based upon the hard work of the Rev. and Mrs. F. Pedersen. He is known by the group for his splendid personality and his willingness to give advice and help.

Women's Athletic Association

FALL activities of the Women's Athletic Association included a Homecoming breakfast for all members, and alumni, and a decorated float for the Homecoming parade which received one of the prizes awarded.

During winter quarter the organization sponsored several play-nights and a formal banquet at the New York Cafe at which initiation of new members was held.

In the spring, the camping trip for the members headed the calendar. Installation of new officers for the coming year was part of the program given in honor of the mothers during Mother's Week-End.

W. A. A. also sponsored two activities for girls every quarter. Included among these were tennis, badminton, archery, tumbling, and basketball. Club affairs such as Sunday evening picnics, group hikes, and swimming parties rounded out a very successful year of activity.

Crimson "W" Club

PROJECT for the W Club during fall quarter was the complete supervision and distribution of lineup-programs for home football games.

In memory of Jack Tomlinson, the group presented the school a memorial plaque. To the Board of Trustees they sent a recommendation that the college athletic field be named for this student athlete.

Winter quarter saw the presentation of the annual all-college smoker, featured by fast bouts, grudge fights, and slugfests to thrill the capacity crowd. For all CWCE lettermen, a banquet was held following the Winko Track and Field Meet, at the New York Cafe. This spring major banquet replaced the three minor banquets of former years.

OFF-CAMPUS GIRLS CLUB

OFF-CAMPUS girls proved themselves to be an unusually peppy and active group again this year by lending material support to nearly all major college functions.

The group itself entertained the off-campus boys at an informal dance, at which the prison theme was used.

The most successful project of the year was the May Prom, traditionally sponsored by the Off-campus Girls club. It was based, this year, in an Italian vineyard theme. All who attended agreed that the affair was highly successful.

The club managed improvements for their lounge from the funds raised by selling candy at the games.

Two awards were made at the annual banquet: the first, to Beatrice Henderson, the off-campus scholarship, and second, to Janice Ferrell, a service award.

MILLIONAIRES CLUB

AT the home of Superior Court Judge Arthur McGuire, resides the Millionaires Club. Members are elected by former occupants of the club, with total membership limited to four. Organized on a "share the lack of wealth" plan, the club maintains moral and scholastic standards; members must be gainfully employed.

During the course of the school year, the members sponsor a dinner at the Club for invited guests.

COLONIAL BALL

IN A colonial mansion garden setting more than a hundred couples danced to the music of Larry Langevin's orchestra at the Colonial Ball, sponsored by the A. S. B. March 1. Parchment scrolls as programs completed the theme of the days of the American Revolution.

Assisting A. S. B. social commissioner Lloyd Mitchell, general chairman, were the Intercollegiate Knights, who had complete charge of decorations. Vine arbors, flowering shrubs, the mansion veranda were included in the arrangements, with the cherry tree scene as the center of interest.

A four-couple minuet was performed as intermission program. Jane Troth, Eva Carlson Bette Fletcher, Donna Freeman, Lloyd Mitchell, Charles Cooke, Vic Forsythe, and Ham Howard took part in this, with Terry Forsythe as the accompanist.

Patrons and patronesses included Dr. and Mrs. R. E. McConnell, Mr. H. J. Whitney, Mrs. Elizabeth Chapman, Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Holmes, Jr., Miss Minerva Elworthy, Mr. and Mrs. Donald H. Thompson, Mr. Wayne Roberg, Miss Harriett Thomas, Mr. Lloyd Mitchell, and Miss Jane Troth.

THE BARN DANCE

INFORMALITY in a rural atmosphere accounted for the success of the annual Barn Dance held in the Old Gym January 31. A jam-packed crowd spun through square dances, waltzes, schottisches, and jitterbug for a rip-roaring time at this Junior-class-sponsored event.

Contests were the rule of the evening; preparation for several of these had been made beforehand. Winners in the poster-publicity contest were Shirley Hand, Alton Knoke, Roberta Leslie, J. Henry Dasenbrock, and Mrs. Pearl Hicks. In the beard-growing competition prizes were offered in various categories: puniest, longest, toughest, best imitation, blackest, and all-around. Tops in these fields were Tony Iverson, Chuck Cooke, Jim Lounsberry, John McElhiney, High Evans, and Don Raven.

Costumes were judged by the Hertz-Nelson faculty committee, with four prizes given. Ralph Thompson won the men's prize; Muriel Stone, the women's; Lorraine Moberg and Bob Matheson, farmer and wife and the couple's; and Wayne Hertz, the faculty. Prizes included spuds and cabbage.

At intermission Althea Manley and Jane Hasemeier of Kamola presented the hilarious skit "Reuben and Rachel." The Wednesday Nighters furnished the music.

Committee chairmen were Bob Groeschell, general; Bob Brainard and Vic Overstreet, entertainment; John McElhiney, decorations; Alice Woods, refreshments; and Herb Legg, publicity.

FIRESIDES---MINOR DANCES

SOcial dancing has proved itself to be the main activity of Central Washington College, with most social events providing time for that diversion some place on the program. Regular after-dinner dancing has become a tradition for Wednesday evenings from 6:30 to 8:00 P. M. Music for these was furnished this year by Maryon Cotton, pianist, Betty Porter, cornetist, and Jerry McCumber, drummer.

Dormitory firesides throughout the entire year were given in honor of incoming freshmen, visiting athletes; inter-house exchanges were also held. Dancing, games and refreshments were featured.

Associated Women Students and Off-Campus Girls' Club sponsored monthly mixers for campus women. In addition to program features, the groups participated in dancing, and devoured refreshments.

All-college dances, in addition to the three formals and the Barn Dance were numerous, but well-spaced. At Homecoming time, alumni returned to mingle with undergraduates in an A. S. B.-sponsored event in the Student Pavilion.

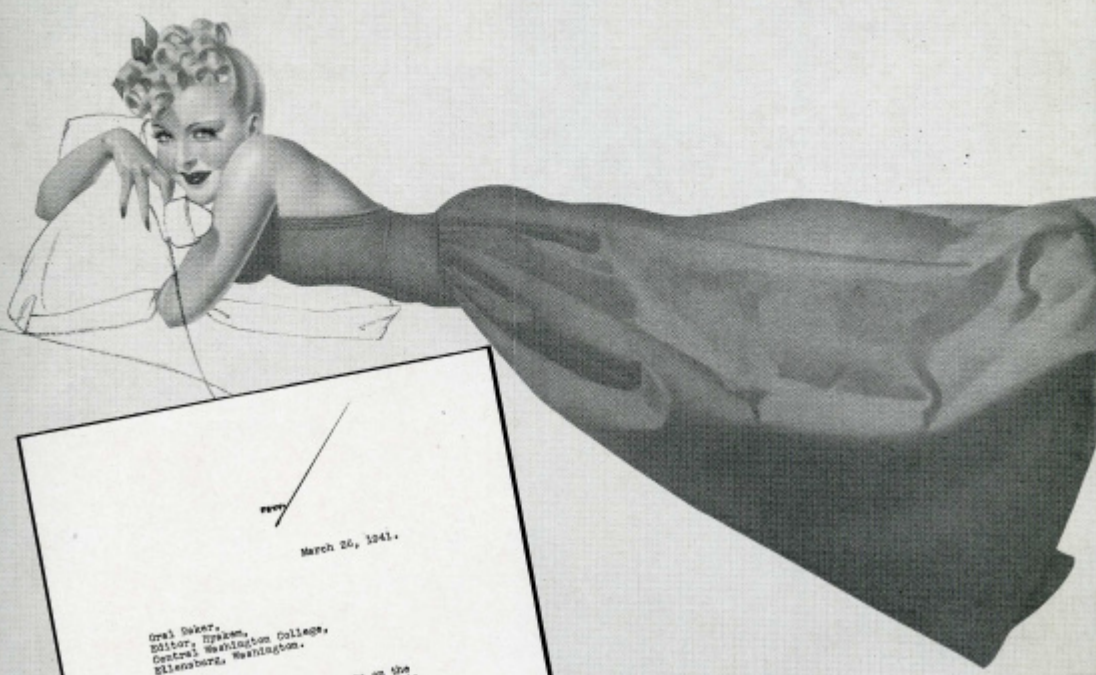

MISCELLANEOUS DANCES

THE Sophomore class sponsored two hops, one in the fall quarter and the annual Cupid's Informal, the Valentine tolo, during the winter quarter. Class officers deserve credit for well-planned socials this year more than ever.

The Freshman-sponsored Frosh Frolic came May 2, in honor of graduating juniors and seniors. The theme of this dance was "Joe's Place," a cheap East-side tavern in the Old Gym.

Final informal dance of the year was the Varsity Ball, given by the Senior Class, following the Winko-Track and Field meet.

The All-School picnic climaxed the college social calendar for the year. It was held May 27 at Eschbach Park, on the Yakima-Naches highway. Numerous contests, ball games, swimming, picnic meals, hiking, and dancing filled the annual all-day outing.
